ADMINISTRATIVE SECRETARY
Sophie Boussenac

OUR CONSTITUTION

1. The name of the organisation is "International Tennis Writers Association" (ITWA)
2. The basic premise of the Association is that the health of tennis relies on there being a regular and informed stream of coverage in the written press and the radio news media. Therefore the object of the organisation shall be further the interests of tennis journalists and enhance their working life.
3. The Association is administrated by a Management Committee comprising at least 10 members elected by the Annual General Meeting ensuring each geographical region is represented. Anyone wishing to stand the Committee must be a full member of the Association, and must notify of the existing Committee of their wish to stand at least four days before the date of the Annula General Meeting . The elected Committee members then elect from among their number a President and a Treasurer, and ideally a Vice-President and a Committee Secretary. The Committee is able to employ an administrative secretary for the Association if it considers this appropriate.
4. Membership of ITWA is intended to denote that the member is among the most active journalists on the global tennis scene. The Committee has the right to reject applicants or eject existing members to keep total membership within a reasonable and acceptable limit. The Committee must at all times keep a membership criteria document which is maintained and regularly reviewed, in consultation with the membership, by the Committee. This document can be given to all new applicants and, where applicable, to existing members whose membership may have fallen into doubt.
5. Journalists working on a regular basis for governing bodies (such as the ATP, WTA, ITF and national governing bodies), or working as press officers for players, tournaments or tours, cannot be ITWA members because of the need to preserve the autonomy and credibility of our Association. Writing tennis/sport-related articles, to be included in a tournament's programme, website or yearbook for example, are acceptable. This membership criterion will not apply to existing members as of June 2013. The Board will review membership on an annual basis.
6. An annual subscription is payable in order to be a valid member. The sum, which may be altered by the Committee at any time, must be paid annually by June 30.
7. An Annual General Meeting is held once a year during Roland-Garros in Paris. Rules may not be changed except with a 75 per cent majority of those present at AGM or by 75 per cent majority of voters in an email poll of all members organised by the Committee with a minimum of 21 days' notice. At the Annual General Meeting a quorum is made of 20 per cent of full-time members.
8. A special General Meeting may be called at any time by the Committee or within the two months of receipt by an official of the Association of a written requisition. The requisition must be signed by at least ten members, giving notice to the matter to be discussed. Special General Meetings will have the same status as Annual General Meeting, except that there will not be elections for the Committee unless a motion of no confidence in the Committee has been approved by at least 50 percent of those attending. Notice must be given to all members that a Special General Meeting is to take place at least seven days before the date of the meeting.
9. The Committee may hold membership meetings at Grand Slam tournaments and other events at which significant numbers of ITWA members are in attendance if it sees fit, or if this is requested by members. These meetings have no quorum, but any decisions taken are recommendations for the Committee and are not binding on it.
10. The Association's principal method of communication with its members is by electronic means. Therefore all members must provide a valid e-mail address to receive notifications of meetings and other ITWA matters, and should check the ITWA website at regular intervals.
11. Members are expected to conduct themselves in a manner befitting of a responsible tennis journalist, which has at its core a requirement to treat all members of ITWA, other journalists, players, tournament staff/officials and other people active in tennis with commonly accepted levels of civility. Abuse of any kind - whether directed at officials, staff or fellow journalists - will not be tolerated, nor will any other behaviour which the ITWA Committee considers to be inappropriate or damaging to the reputation of ITWA. If any member does not conduct him/herself appropriately, or conducts him/herself in a manner that could cause harm to the reputation of the Association, the Committee has the right to rescind his/her membership with immediate effect, by a 67 per cent vote of Committee members, for any reasons other than those set out in 4 above.

ITWA MEMBERSHIP CRITERIA FOR 2024

1. Membership of ITWA is intended to denote that the member is among the most active journalists on the global tennis scene. It is recognised that the strenuous and costly nature of covering the global tennis circuit is such that some journalists might have years when they are not as active as other years, and that a less active year should not of necessity denote less of a commitment to reporting on tennis. ITWA therefore demands a higher standard of criteria for first-time applicants than for existing members and former members reapplying to join who left ITWA because of reduced activity.

2. To qualify to join ITWA as a first-time applicant, a journalist must:

- a) Be a full-time professional journalist specialising in tennis.
- b) Attend as a working journalist at least 15 tour-level events, including three Grand Slams, in the two years leading up to their application. Each Grand Slam to count as two tournaments.
- c) Qualifying tournaments for these 15 are Grand Slams, ATP and WTA tournaments, Davis Cup and Fed Cup ties and the Olympics. New applicants can include one Challenger and one exhibition event.
- d) The applicant has to have worked as a commissioned remunerated journalist (whether staff or freelance) for news-based professional media at all qualifying tournaments; written journalism and radio news reporting are acceptable, radio rights-holding commentary and television work are not. Any public relations work or work for a national association or tour body cannot count towards a qualifying tournament, but a journalist who does some PR work and/or commentary at a tournament where they also do journalistic work may count this event as part of their 15.
- e) Be in good standing with tournaments in terms of respecting rules. An applicant will not be judged unfavourably by the content of their writing, but it is important that ITWA is assured that any applicant knows how to conduct him/herself in accordance with Article 11 of the ITWA constitution.
- f) Apply for membership before the start of the US Open. New members will be admitted at the start of the following year.

3. To retain membership of ITWA, a member must:

- a) Have attended as a working journalist at least five tour-level events in the past year, including at least one Grand Slam. In the previous two years the member must have satisfied the qualifying criteria for tournaments as detailed in 2(b) and 2 (c) above.
- b) Supply documentary evidence of their work if requested to do so by the Committee for its work assessing the legitimacy of existing members.

4. The Committee has the discretion to declare any member who fails to meet these criteria a "passive member" if it feels the member is failing to meet the criteria only in the short term and for legitimate reasons; passive membership counts as full membership but cannot last for more than two years. In borderline cases of membership renewal, the Committee is entitled to take into consideration the member's attendance at members' meetings and punctuality in paying the annual fee in making its decision.

5. Former members who were ITWA members for at least 10 years and are in good standing with the association may be readmitted at any stage at the discretion of the Committee as long as they meet the criteria for existing members.

6. The above criteria have been drawn up to create a set of standards by which all applicants and existing members can feel their wish to become or remain an ITWA member will be judged fairly. However, in a journalistic world rapidly changing due to financial constraints, technology and new digital practices, no criteria can ever cover all possible circumstances surrounding an application for ITWA membership. Therefore, the Committee retains the right to make judgements in good faith to accept, reject or eject an applicant that may deviate from these criteria if it feels the need to do so. At the same time, all members and applicants implicitly accept the Committee's right to make good faith decisions in order to protect the trust in ITWA among other bodies that enables ITWA members to benefit from certain privileges at tournaments.
